

Folk-Pop Singer and Songwriter Hayley Reardon Announces U.S. Concert Dates, Following European Tour and Release of New Single, Karaoke

BOSTON, Massachusetts (May 11, 2024) — Fresh off a month-long European tour, Boston area-based, folk-pop singer and songwriter Hayley Reardon will play a series of U.S. concerts in May 2024, in Virginia, Pennsylvania, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee. (See concert poster for details.) The shows will feature new songs including Reardon's recently released single Karaoke (video here). Already in 2024, Reardon traveled to Spain in January to record new songs with renowned musicians and frequent collaborators Pau and Arnau Figueres and audio engineer Aniol Bestit at The Sound of Wood Studio near Barcelona. That same month, she released a concert album and video, Hayley Reardon: Live at Starseed Studios, showcasing intimate live performances from Essex, Massachusetts with Pau Figueres on flamenco guitar and Arnau Figueres on acoustic bass (video here).

Next, Reardon performed a series of Northeast U.S. concerts in February and March with acclaimed Catalan singer and songwriter Judit Neddermann, and with the Figueres brothers as their shared band. She then embarked on a marathon 20-concert tour in Germany, Austria and Switzerland, in March and April, including several shows with Pau Figueres, one of today's most talented and interesting Spanish guitarists.

"It's been a whirlwind year so far, and I'm excited to be back home after an amazing month performing in Germany, Austria and Switzerland," said Reardon. "I'm looking forward to hitting the road in the U.S. again, returning to the South, and sharing new songs recorded in Spain that will be part of an EP I'll be releasing in its entirety later this year. I'm especially excited to play at City Winery in Nashville. I lived in Nashville for three years after high school and it's a community that has played an important role in my growth as a songwriter, performer and recording artist."

About Hayley Reardon

Raised in a coastal Massachusetts town north of Boston, Hayley Reardon is a critically acclaimed folk-pop singer and songwriter and a storyteller in the truest sense of the word. Her songs serve as postcards from an artist brave enough to take the road less traveled. Reardon dove head first into music at the young age of 15, and has spent much of the past decade writing, recording and performing music around the world. Reardon's songs have been featured on multiple Spotify editorial playlists and Apple Music playlists, with over 7 million streams on Apple Music alone. She has shared the stage with renowned artists including Lori McKenna, Rodney Crowell, Anaïs Mitchell, Pau and Arnau Figueres, and Judit Neddermann among others. Reardon was a Boston Music Awards 2023 Vocalist of the Year nominee. Full bio, photos, tour info. and links to music at HayleyReardon.com.
